About the Ontario Edible Education Network

An initiative of Sustain Ontario, the Edible Education Network has been established to bring together groups in Ontario that are connecting children and youth with healthy food systems. Recent efforts include:

- Say Yes! to Good Food in Schools messaging & resources
- Partnering with Farm to Cafeteria Canada on National Farm to School Salad Bar Program grants
- Local Food Literacy resources for schools

Panelists

KIM MCGIBBON – Roots to Harvest

Kim recently joined the Roots to Harvest team as Program Coordinator. As a registered dietitian working in Public Health for over 15 years, she helped start community gardens, worked to develop the good food box and brought Seedy Saturday events to Thunder Bay.

ALIA WURDEMAN STAM – Roots to Harvest

Having grown up in Thunder Bay, Alia has fostered a passion for northern Ontario's community and environment. Now she has joined the Roots to Harvest team as School Programs Coordinator to share the perfect melding of all her great passions; food, community, and growth (of person and planet).

EMMA ROONEY – Ecosource

Emma is Ecosource's Special Projects Coordinator, working on From Our Valley, a new Local Food in Schools project with the Thames Valley District School Board. Emma is trained in horticultural therapy, which uses gardening for health promotion. Getting her hands dirty, facilitating environmental, health, and youth engagement projects, brings Emma great satisfaction.

Panelists

KERRY GRECO – Cardinal Leger SS

Kerry Greco is a Hospitality and Tourism teacher SHSM lead who has been involved with the promotion of food literacy for the past few years. With students, Kerry has collaborated to bring fresh local vegetables into the school's cafeteria and most importantly, facilitated a connection between a local farm and the school community.

SHIBA ANJUM and KAITLYN VISSER – Oakwood Public School

Shiba and Kaitlyn are part of a team working to implement a Salad Bar Program at Oakwood Public School in Oakville, Ontario. Shiba (far left), the project coordinator, is a parent volunteer who is passionate about wellness for students in the school community. Kaitlyn (centre bottom) is a Public Health Nurse with Halton Region, who supports the school with various Comprehensive School Health initiatives, including food literacy as it relates to the salad bar program.

LYNDSAY DAVIDSON -

Lyndsay Davidson has been Registered Dietitian at the Chatham-Kent Public Health Unit since 2004. She is part of the Chronic Disease and Injury Prevention Team focusing on Adults, Food Security and Food Systems.
